COMPANY DESCRIPTION

Armada Hoffer Properties, Inc. (NYSE: AHH), was originally founded in 1979 and today still operates as a full service real estate company. AHH develops, constructs, owns and manages high quality, institutional grade office, retail and multi-family properties throughout the Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions. The company is incorporated in Maryland and operates as a real estate investment trust (REIT) for tax purposes. AHH is headquartered in Virginia Beach, VA, where its flagship property Town Center is also located.

SUMMARY

Armada Hoffer appears capable of delivering sustainable, low-risk growth to investors through its diversified real estate portfolio, which includes a healthy development pipeline.

- The company currently owns 45 properties representing approximately 4.4M rentable square feet and approximately 1,100 apartment units.
- AHH has dependable cash flow created by occupancy around 96%.
- The company has developed approximately $1.6B in assets to date and had approximately $336M in the development pipeline as last reported.
- With its internal construction team and developers, AHH can manage costs and timing on projects, creating immediate equity when taking properties online at an estimated spread of 125 - 200 bps; this factor not only gives the company several advantages in the marketplace but also significantly differentiates AHH from other publicly traded REITS operating as pure-play acquirers of income-producing properties.
- Its construction business gross profit was $1.3M in Q3 2016, and management guides to $5.1 - $5.3M annual gross profit for this segment in 2016; AHH had approximately $246M in its construction backlog as of 9/30/16.
- The company constantly re-evaluates its properties and disposes of non-core assets when identified so that capital can be redeployed; for example, proceeds from the sales of Oceaneering International in Q415 (yielded 6.7% cap rate) and the Richmond Tower (closed in January 2016 at a 7.9% cash cap rate) were used in addition to borrowings to fund the 11 retail centers purchased in Q116 for $170.5M. Additionally, management seeks to lessen its credit risk with any one property or tenant and diversify the income sources of its portfolio – the Q116 sale of Richmond Tower, which made up approximately 11% of rental revenues at fiscal 2015 year-end (and tenant Williams Mullen occupied 80% of the building), significantly changed the weighting of the company’s revenues.
- AHH has announced the next phase of the Town Center development in Virginia Beach, a $41M mixed-use project expected to include 39,000 sq. feet of retail space (approximately 50% pre-leased) and 130 luxury apartments; also, the company plans to develop and own a new $45M multifamily property in Charlotte, NC, as part of a JV with Southern Apartment Group.
- The company is well-positioned within the real estate industry with very favorable growth dynamics for its retail, office and multifamily designs and locations.
- The current dividend yield is 5%, with a recent quarterly dividend of $0.18 and a normalized FFO/diluted share of $0.26 and AFFO/share of $0.24.

We believe that AHH offers a well-diversified real estate investment opportunity for the marketplace, with a current share price trading well below the midpoint of our estimated NAV per share range of $14.75 - $16.25.

VALUATION

We believe Armada Hoffler Properties, Inc. holds significant potential for investors - a current yield at 5% from a diversified portfolio with high occupancy rates, coupled with strong industry dynamics and a healthy development pipeline, should result in a growing NAV and stock price. Investing in AHH provides the following benefits:

- An opportunity to limit risk in a real estate investment that has averaged returns at approximately 3000 bps greater than the common REIT index MSCI US REIT year-to-date
- Occupancy maintained at approximately 96% on properties with leases locked in at favorable rates for the longer-term, with staggered expirations
- A successful track record of developing properties with immediately accretive equity once put into production
- Participation in an area of the real estate industry with predicted strong growth – urban development of mixed-use properties that combine office, living and retail spaces

Our current projections are through FY16 and only include the current development activity, acquisitions and dispositions announced to date. We are projecting 2016 net operating income of $67.5M, representing a 25% increase YOY, with growth being generated by new properties being brought online in addition to recent acquisitions. Additionally, our model shows significant gains for EBITDA, FFO and AFFO calculations, all important metrics for the analysis of REIT operations. We show G&A increasing to $9.3M in 2016, in-line with guidance, but up from $8.4M in the prior year.

Due to the difficulty of predicting the size, timing and financing structure (equity vs. debt) of acquisitions and the stabilization of development properties, we have not introduced projections beyond FY16. We note that management's disclosures do slate one additional retail property being stabilized in Q416. Also, subsequent to quarter end, the company acquired a stabilized retail asset for approximately $26.2M and announced that AHH plans to acquire an 80,000 sq. foot grocery-anchored retail center located in the greater Charlotte area of NC.

AHH closed on the sale the Richmond Tower office building and then the purchase of 11 retail centers for $170.5M in Q1 2016, adding approximately 1.1M square feet of space; currently three of these properties are to be sold (slated by Q416/Q117); Willowbrook Commons sold in June 2016 and Kroger Junction in July 2016 for an aggregate sales price of $12.9M. Management has stated that these proceeds are being utilized to reduce outstanding debt. Also during the quarter, the acquisition of Southshore Shops was completed, adding 40,000+ sq. feet of retail space in Midlothian, VA, for a purchase price of $9.16M.

Our estimates for the construction company's annual gross profit are also in agreement with management's projected range of $5.1 - $5.3M, a healthy contribution to AHH's operating results.

Additional debt was added in the first half of 2016 related to acquisition activity, and our estimates are in line with management's guidance of $16.2 - $16.6M of interest expense for 2016. We have also included $3.2M of interest income for FY16. Armada Hoffler has guided to a 2016 full-year normalized FFO per share estimate of $0.99 - $1.01. Our model comes in at $1.01 per share normalized FFO for FY16.

Armada Hoffler represents a compelling growth story as a respected developer in its industry, and the company is positioned to continue to provide investors with growth in both current yield and NAV, given a current estimated NAV per share range of approximately $14.75 - $16.25, with a midpoint of approximately $15.50.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

Armada Hoffler Properties, Inc. is an internally managed, publicly traded full-service REIT that diversifies its portfolio among institutional grade office space, retail and multifamily properties. AHH also offers general contracting services to third-party clients. The company currently has the majority of its producing assets and development projects located in the Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions.

Exhibit 2: Operating Portfolio

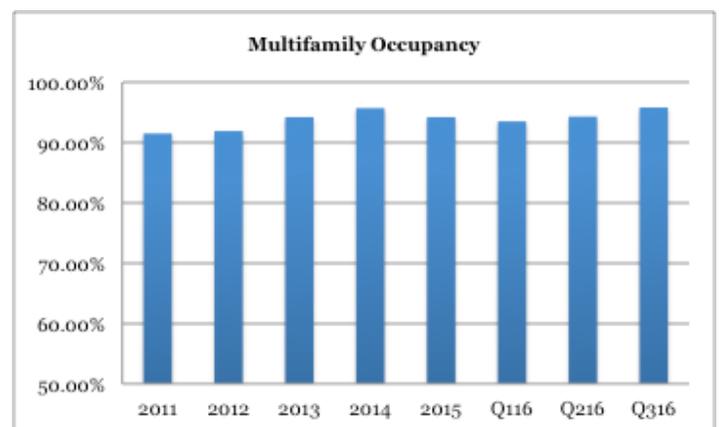

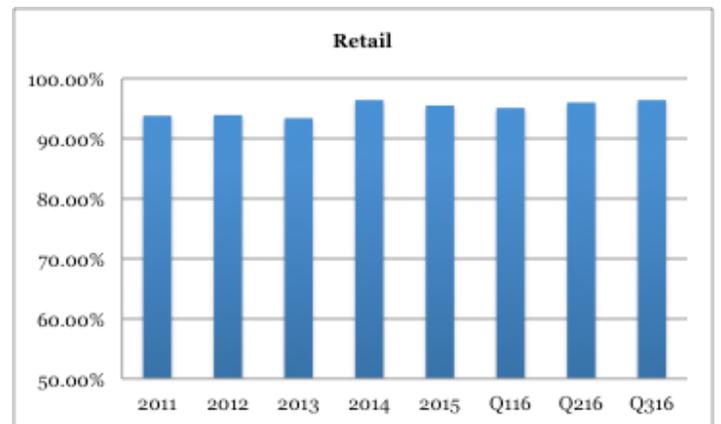

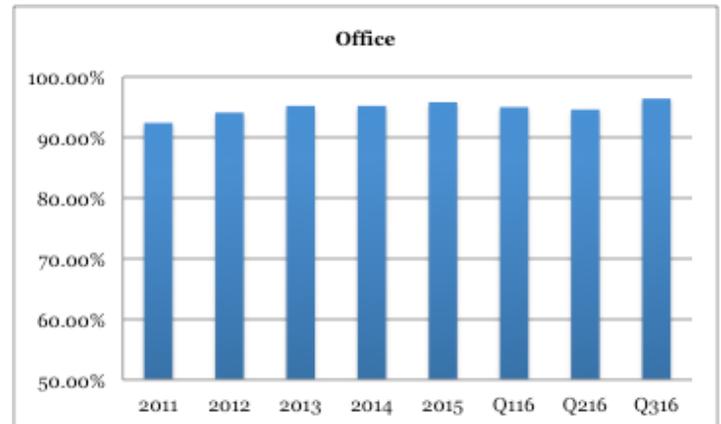

Source: Company Reports

Armada Hoffler has three main components within its integrated business model, which we describe in more detail below:

- A stable portfolio of completed properties with high occupancy levels generating healthy cash flow
- Properties under development that create immediate equity at the wholesale level upon completion/occupancy
- A construction segment that services 3rd party needs but overall makes up a smaller part of AHH's business

As most recently reported, Armada Hoffler owns 45 properties representing approximately 4.4M rentable square feet of office and retail space, plus 1,100 multifamily units, and approximately $336M in its development pipeline. The company has historically high occupancy rates across all three categories.

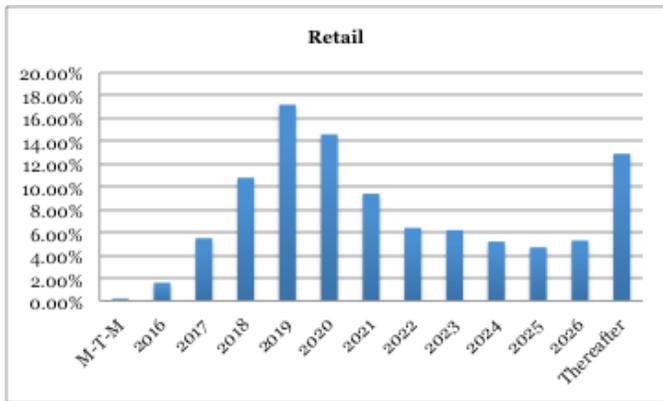

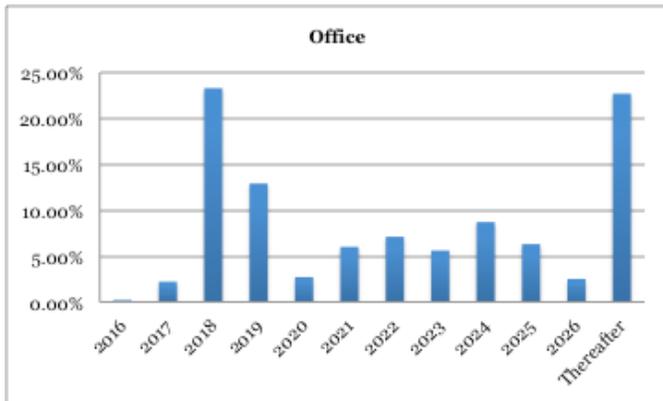

Exhibit 3: Historically High Occupancy Rates

Each portfolio is managed for long-term, stable cash flow. Office and retail lease terms are designed to create low turnover risk; it is notable that a significant portion of office and retail leases expires beyond 2026.

Exhibit 4: Longer-term Staggered Lease Expirations

Source: Company Reports, Stonegate Capital Partners

By developing all of its own properties, AHH can control the entire construction process as well as the associated costs; additionally, there are no fees or mark-ups on the projects, which makes it considerably less expensive than using an outsider. Building designs maximize efficiency and rentable space. Management states that typically there is a 125 – 200 bps spread upon completion of the total capitalized costs vs. the fair market value of the property.

While a smaller part of the overall picture, AHH’s construction business is a solid source of gross profit that builds relationships, expands the Armada Hoffer reach, and continues to build upon the company’s already strong name recognition in its industry. The company also recognizes revenues from its real estate services group related to development and management opportunities. All general contracting and real estate services are conducted through a taxable REIT subsidiary (TRS).

The company’s most significant development to date is its Virginia Beach Town Center. This approximate $700 million development created a now thriving central business district where there was none and was formed through a public/private partnership with the city of Virginia Beach

(contributed approximately $200 million in funds to the project). Since 2000, Town Center has been an on-going, 17-block, multi-phase development offering:

- 800,000 square-feet of office space
- 23 restaurants
- 628 apartments
- 410 hotel rooms
- 30,000 square-feet of conference space
- a 1,300-seat performing arts theatre

Town Center currently makes up approximately 35% of the company’s net operating income. The development has high occupancy rates and garners a premium on most of its spaces due to its location, the quality of its design, and its many A-list tenants that attract significant business to the area. The photos below show the “before and after” for the Town Center development.

MANAGEMENT TEAM

The long-term history of AHH’s management is impressive as detailed by the bios included later in this report. Many members of the executive group have been together at Armada Hoffler for 2 – 3 decades and have gained in-depth knowledge of the business working in different areas of the company; the team has extensive experience in portfolio/property management, construction, and real estate development.

In addition to Chairman and founder Dan Hoffler, Vice Chairman Russ Kirk and CEO Lou Haddad, Armada Hoffler’s independent board member also bring strong resumes to the company. For example:

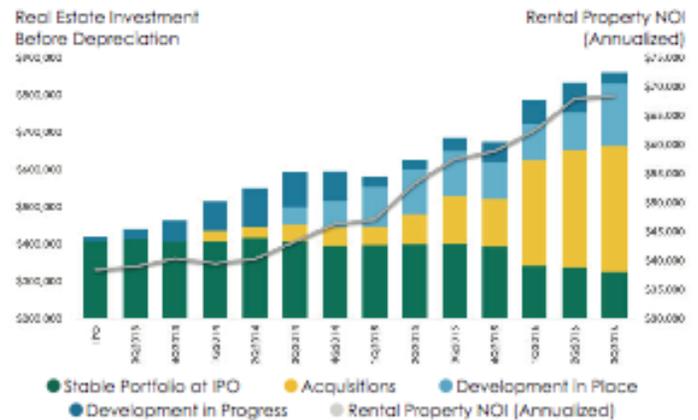

- George Allen – Former congressman, senator, and Governor of Virginia
- James Carroll – President and CEO Crestline Hotels & Resorts, LLC
- James Cherry – Previously Chairman and CEO for the Mid-Atlantic Banking Region at Wachovia
- Eva Hardy – Served as EVP of Public Policy and Corporate Communications at Dominion Resources
- John Snow – Served as US Treasury Secretary under President George W. Bush

As last reported, AHH had approximately 20% insider ownership. Therefore, management is heavily invested on both professional as well as personal levels.

GROWTH STRATEGY

The company reports same store NOI for Q316 was up 1.4%, and 2.3% on a cash basis compared to Q315, the ninth consecutive quarter of same store cash NOI growth. Organic growth is gained thru increasing rental rates and high occupancy, while managing/reducing costs on company properties. For AHH, however, the primary avenue for growth is through bringing properties online via its development pipeline, creating instant equity. By developing its own properties, Armada Hoffler can control the process from beginning to end and cut out excess fees to third-parties. And many times, the company has potential tenants looking to be located in a certain area or third-parties interested in pitching AHH an idea on a project. Armada Hoffler does partner with both public and private entities on its developments. To date, the company reports having developed $1.6 billion in assets.

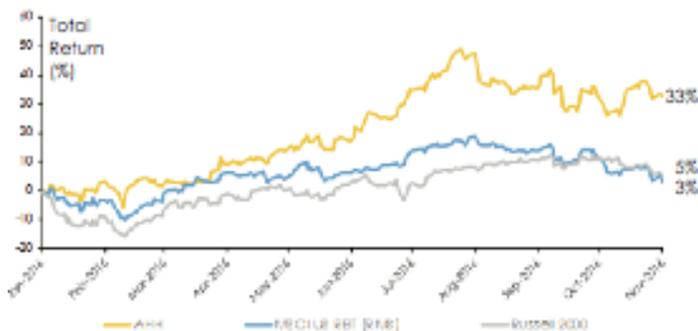

Exhibit 5: Portfolio Growth since IPO

As part of actively managing its portfolio and always re-evaluating each property's contribution to the long-term business goals, assets that no longer fit the bill are strategically disposed of given market conditions, and the capital is re-deployed and put to work elsewhere building value. An excellent example of this is the sale of Whetstone Apartments in Durham, NC, mid-2015 on which the company made an estimated 20%+ profit and immediately utilized the proceeds towards the acquisitions of Providence Plaza in Charlotte, NC, and Socastee Commons in Myrtle Beach, SC. And at the beginning of 2016, AHH acquired a portfolio of 11 retail centers (1.1M square feet of space) throughout the Mid-Atlantic and South-Central US for approximately $170.5M in cash. The company funded the purchase price with net proceeds from the Q415 sale of Oceanering as well as the Q116 sale of the Richmond Tower and borrowings under its credit facility.

The Armada Hoffer management team has the ultimate goal of increasing total shareholder returns, as demonstrated by its growth over the past year, compared to the common REIT index, MSCI US REIT, and the Russell 2000.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

Per Emerging Trends in Real Estate 2015, US and Canada, by PWC and the Urban Land Institute (ULI), many factors have been playing into real estate's strengths in this rising market cycle, including above-trend GDP growth, continued drops in unemployment, minimal CPI inflation percentages, and still-low levels of new construction, especially commercial. And many of these factors playing into this solid real estate forecast benefit AHH.

The industry outlook for real estate is favorable for the majority of current players. While many segments continue recovery and improvement since the Recession, there has been limited supply (lesson of overbuilding and overleveraging learned?) in the interim. While great coastal cities continue to thrive for their around the clock options and activities, re-emergent downtown areas have spurred investment and development raising the quality of life in those areas with a combination of housing, retail, dining, and walk-to-work offices. This concept has lit a fire within the real estate industry and among city planners.

Boomers are healthier and living longer lives, and many are still seeking to recover from the losses during the Recession. They are staying in the workforce longer and often choosing urban over suburban for living – not migrating to Florida and golf course communities as once was the retirement-age trend. This has altered the housing picture for this demographic, many not wanting to be tied to a big house with a big mortgage, and many choosing to live closer to work with little commute.

As interest rates remain low and occupancy ticks up, competition can be fierce for acquisitions. It appears that a tide of capital is flowing through America's real estate markets, and "a rising tide lifts all boats". Who knows exactly when will be the end of a historic opportunity to lock in long-term mortgage money at exceptionally cheap rates; thus, interested parties are jumping on investment and development opportunities. And investors continue to like markets with vibrant urban centers.

According to Emerging Trends in Real Estate 2015, US and Canada, by PWC and the Urban Land Institute (ULI), "The development of vibrant urban centers is almost a universal trend among the 75 markets included in the 2015 survey. Only five markets have seen negative growth in urban center population over the past three years. This improvement is not limited to markets that have established urban centers". The tired concept of going to a shopping mall is being replaced by ground-floor retail under small offices or residential units, offering a mix-use development opportunity and is showing great success. Armada Hoffer is currently capitalizing on these industry trends as well as others and appears well-positioned with its office, retail and multifamily segment designs as well as property locations.

RISKS

As with any investment, there are certain risks associated with Armada Hoffer's operations as well as with the surrounding economic and regulatory environments.

- Seeking growth principally through acquisitions and development, management must be capable of consistently identifying and closing on suitable locations in their respective target markets in order to continue making accretive additions to their current asset portfolio.

- The scale of the company's development projects is large and can be longer-term; failure to control costs and stay on schedule can have negative consequences on the ultimate cost basis of the completed project. Similar risks apply to its third-party construction business.
- While the current management team has extensive experience and relationships in the real estate market, the company runs the risk of operations being significantly impacted should a member of management choose to leave the company.
- Because of AHH's classification as a REIT, the company is required to distribute annually at least 90% of its taxable income to maintain its elected tax status. This leaves AHH with the need to finance its asset purchases with outside capital at times. Availability and terms for future credit needs might not be favorable, and those as well as any future equity offerings could cause potential dilution.
- As of year-end, the company had approximately 87% and 8% of the total annualized base rent of the properties in its stabilized portfolio located in Virginia and North Carolina, respectively; this creates higher geographic risk of being affected by adverse events, conditions, or governmental regulations in those concentrated areas.
- Armada Hoffer's retail properties rely on several larger, nationally recognized tenants to anchor their shopping centers. The loss of an anchor or similar major tenant could significantly affect the company's overall occupancy levels and thus seriously impair the retail property's ability to produce income and thus its value.
- Because many of the company's costs and expenses are fixed (real estate taxes, insurance, loan payments and maintenance), they will not decline if AHH's revenues decline. Therefore, any adverse economic or other conditions affecting occupancy or rental rates could have a very negative impact on operating results and affect the company's ability to service debt and pay shareholders.
- Overall, Armada Hoffer faces numerous risks commonly related to the real estate industry; the company's business is very influenced by changes in interest rates and the behavior of the lending markets, the potential illiquidity of its properties if the desire/need arises to sell, tenant preferences for renting vs. buying given market conditions and the rental rates that individual markets will bear, public concern over economic downturn or the potential that it will occur, changes to governmental laws and regulations where properties are being developed or located, and/or an oversupply or reduction in demand for office, retail or multifamily space in its markets.

COMMON REIT METRICS AND TERMINOLOGY

Net Asset Value (NAV)	Essentially represents the market value of the company's assets (in this case its income-producing property portfolio, assets under development, and its TRS construction business) less liabilities. For REITS, a common approach to calculating NAV takes net operating income divided by an assumed cap rate to arrive at a current market value for the real estate.
EBITDA	A non-GAAP measure representing earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization. AHH also excludes gains or losses from sales of depreciable property.
Funds from Operations (FFO)	Calculated as net income (loss) plus depreciation and depletion and excluding gains or losses from sales of depreciable operating property; it is a non-GAAP measure for REIT analysis.
Normalized FFO	Takes FFO and adjusts for acquisition, development, and other pursuit costs, gains or losses from early extinguishment of debt, impairment charges, mark-to-market adjustments on interest rate derivatives and other non-comparable items.
Adjusted Funds from Operations (AFFO)	A frequently used REIT/non-GAAP metric that starts with Normalized FFO, and then adjusts for stock based compensation, tenant improvement, leasing commission and leasing incentive costs associated with second generation rental space, capital expenditures, non-cash interest expense, straight-line rents, and the amortization of leasing incentives above/below market rents and the proceeds from government development grants. Management believes that AFFO provides useful supplemental information to investors regarding the company's cash generated by operations.
Cap Rate	Rate of return on real estate investment property based on the income the property generates after operating costs; it reflects the investor's return on his or her investment given risks associated with certain real estate asset types and asset location, among other factors. A higher cap rate indicates higher returns, and generally greater perceived risk.
